

Lisa Marie Main

Lisa Marie Main is an accomplished leader, consultant, executive coach, and facilitator of interactions that lead to alignment and results-based action for senior leaders and their teams all around the world. Her experience as a business leader, coupled with her acute understanding of the subtle energies and dynamics in human systems, make for inspiring and powerful client interactions.

“I’m inspired by the idea of activating potential of individuals and teams. Verus Global programs, such as the Pathways to Leadership® Process – equip leaders to create a more fulfilled and engaged workforce who then have a significant impact on performance.”

Lisa Marie joined the team as a facilitator in 2008 and soon became our Director of Training and Development. From 2013 -2016 she served Verus Global as our Chief Operations Officer and enjoyed applying 25 years of leadership development experience into practical application.

Lisa Marie can site many success stories as a result of partnering with global organizations including Nestlé, P&G, Kellogg, as well as community organizations such as The Denver Center for Mental Health. The most inspiring stories are those that have saved client-partners hundreds of thousands of dollars and the most meaningful stories are of enhanced relationships with loved ones. Each story is an opportunity to celebrate greatness – and an opportunity to see improved lives.

A life-long learner, Lisa Marie earned a Master’s Degree in Applied Behavioral Science with an emphasis on Leadership in Human Systems and Organizational Development, and was a Continuing Studies Instructor at Duke University.

More about Lisa Marie:

Lisa Marie has lived an adventurous life starting in Brooklyn, NY and growing up on the Jersey Shore watching Bruce Springsteen and the E Street Band playing softball. She has worked in the jungles of Peru and lived on a sailboat in North Carolina. For her, the greatest adventure is life itself and the relationships we influence by living and leading true to our values. She now enjoys life's adventures living in Colorado, with her husband, Tim and daughter, Hallie where they enjoy skiing, climbing, hiking and camping. Lisa's first degree is a B.S. in Administration of Justice and Public Safety from Virginia Commonwealth University.
